Excitement in Washington.

Washington, Nov. 22d.—The vote to lay on the table Thurman's resolution to discharge the Committee on Elections from further consideration of Butler's credentials stood 30 to 32, Patterson, of North Carolina, and Conover, of Florida, voting with the Democrats. Patterson votes so to save himself from criminal prosecution, and Conover alleges that he votes to help Patterson. Under the Hampton government every Republican in the State has been indicted, and every Republican who ever traveled through there is liable to indictment for being Republican. Edmunds, of Vermont, moved to strike out the name of Butler from the original resolution and insert Kellogg, and in speaking in support of his motion he referred to Democrats as the majority side of the Senate, the first time these words have been uttered on the floor of the Senate since 1861. Conover and Patterson will vote to seat Kellogg. If Kellogg gets in first, with Sharon here, Butler may yet be defeated. Vice-President Wheeler then having the casting vote, provided they will vote like to-day. The excitement is very great here. The galleries and floor of the Senate are immensely crowded although it is raining outside. This is one of the results of Hayes' policy, and it is bravely hinted that he is privy to these transactions. A Democratic organization of the Senate in December is likely to occur unless this political infamy is stopped. The Senate has adjourned. Conover voted aye, making 31 to 31. President Wheeler cast the deciding vote in the negative.

CONGRESSIONAL BLONDES.—There are many who think that the last two Congresses are improvements on those that drew pay for ten years prior to that time. There are fewer gray heads in the present House than in any previous one. Young men, at least middle-aged men, predominate, though there are enough of gray heads to make the whole body look respectable, and give it the look of dignity that is necessary. There are but two red heads; the far West sends one, and Connecticut the other. I counted sixty-four black heads on the floor, several days ago, on the Democratic side alone. Black and dark brown hair predominate on the Republican side also. There are six pure blondes, and only six. As usual, all wear black clothes. There are two or three exceptions, however, Fernando Wood and Clarkson N. Potter of New York, having appeared several times on the floor in gray plaid suits.—Hartford Times.

The Pond Fish of California.

On the 21st of May, 1877, fourteen carp, only three of which were old enough to spawn this season, were placed in a pond near the residence of Henry Parsons, three miles from this city. On the 10th of October following the pond was drawn off, and the original fourteen carp, much grown and in fine condition and health, together with their increase of 1,408 young and vigorous fish, were taken out and placed in a breeding pond for next year. These fish have no food other than what they found in the water. A few of the same fish are in the water-tank in front of the residence of C. Bern, Church street. The carp is a splendid table fish, flesh hard, and when the spinal column is removed, boneless, and said to be more pleasant to the palate than our mountain trout. It grows rapidly, lives to a considerable age, and is exceedingly prolific; prefers quiet waters; spawns in May or June, and feeds on larvae of aquatic insects, worms, and soft plants; eats almost any vegetable food in artificial ponds; tenacious of life; will live long periods, more particularly in winter, without food. We cannot recommend it to the angler, as it is of the sucker family, genus cyprinus, with barrel at the upper part of either corner of the mouth. Hard to catch in nets. The size varies from six to thirty inches, and the weight from one to eighteen pounds. A gentleman tells us that he has seen them in Germany that weighed forty pounds each, and forty to fifty years of age. The gold-fish is a variety of the same family of fishes, one species being called the golden-carp.—Santa Cruz Sentinel, Nov. 17th.

A BILL OF FARE.—Here is one bill of fare, as given by a traveler in the North, which may seem incredible, and yet I can vouch for it as not being a whit exaggerated: Seven men in thirteen days consumed two buffalo bulls, seven carib deer, fifty pounds of pemican (equal to about half a buffalo), and a great many ducks and geese, and on the last day there was nothing to eat. This enormous quantity of meat could not have weighed less than sixteen hundred pounds, at the very lowest estimate, which would give a daily ration to each man of eighteen pounds. Incredible as this may seem it is by no means impossible in a severe climate, and living the active life that these men lead. I remember camping with three half breed plain-hunters one evening beside a buffalo calf we had killed shortly before dusk. The men began cutting the animal up and feasting upon it. They were eating when I retired for the night, and they were still hovering over the fire when I arose early in the morning. With the exception of the head, which was slowly roasting upon the coals, there was nothing left of the calf except the bones.—Manitoba Correspondence N. Y. Post.

EVARTS' ADVICE TO AN OFFICE-SEEKER.—A young New Yorker called on Secretary Evarts the other day with a letter from a prominent citizen of New York, recommending him for a Consulate. There were a number of persons present at the time. The Secretary read the letter and then glanced at the young man, who presented the appearance of one in the full glow of health. The Secretary said: "Well, really, I should like to oblige Mr. —, but you do not seem delicate; you do not look as if you needed to go abroad for your health. I do not like to see able-bodied young men go out of the country. There is such an inviting field here for young men of energy and ambition. Mr. — says you are a civil engineer. That is a good profession and offers abundant opportunities for distinction; why not go to work at it?" All this he said in a tone of voice sufficiently loud to be heard by every one in the room. The young New Yorker showed very painful embarrassment, and with his face covered with blushes backed out of the room. He will not be apt to importune Mr. Evarts for that Consulate.—Washington Corr, Baltimore Sun.

The Agitators.

The workmen of San Francisco are still holding meetings, at which Messrs. Day and Knight alternate. Kearney and his confederates have been liberated, and the cause gained much strength after that event. At the meetings a lofty contempt for capital is displayed, arising chiefly from the hungry fact that the speakers are not capitalists. Many predictions are regarded to the future state which is to be reached through the present movement have been advanced, and from the meetings already held there would seem to be danger of a millennium.

The sturdy policeman is, however, present in all his majesty, and the prospects for an immediate change in human affairs grows beautifully less. There is some virtue in free speech, but the 5,000 laborers who are now listening nightly in San Francisco, will learn that as an article of diet it lacks strength. There is a well established law which says that men must earn and eat, and when the agitators cease to trouble the worker will be at rest. Meanwhile there must be more or less suffering and some punishment as a stress upon the patent fact that men cannot overturn at will more easily than they can build. The laborer as an honest man in search of bread, is worthy of all consideration and respect, as a law-breaker and judge of his fellow men, he is a failure. In times of prosperity he is apathetic, in the dark hours he becomes immediately vindictive. All this may be excused in virtue of the honesty which surrounds his efforts, and makes his life valuable. But when he listens to demagogues, who would make force do the work of reason, he is sadly at fault and must suffer. These sufferings may command sympathy, but they can find no ready relief until the cause be removed, and the laws are once more respected in spirit and letter.

Nevada Politics.

The Virginia Chronicle brings to the front a lengthy list of aspirants for office in this State next year. On the Democratic side it seems to favor J. C. Hagerman, of Washoe, for Governor, and Jewett W. Adams, the present incumbent, for Lieutenant Governor. Controller Hobart's chances are considered the best for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. So they are considered, we think, in this portion of the State. A shrewd friend at our elbow suggests that the tickets may be Hagerman and Adams and Hobart and Mighels. The Chronicle's complimentary mention of the writer of this paragraph in connection with the Congressional nomination is appreciated but not authorized. Were we a candidate, however, which we do not expect to be, we should anticipate meeting precisely the kind of opposition which our Comstock contemporaries predict. We should expect every man without brains or soul who has never spent a dime, or put forth an effort for the success of the party, to appear against us. We never yet achieved anything except by the hardest kind of knocks, and in this school we have learned that there are blows to be given as well as taken—in the party.—Eureka Sentinel.

Listen! We don't believe the tickets will be anything like that. In case Cassidy should be a candidate, we are then to understand that there will be no brains or soul in the contest. That may be; but there will be defeat in it for Cassidy. Mark it.

The Indians along the Rio Grande are again operating with the usual success. Horses and men are missing from time to time and a Peace Commission must shortly be organized. These red ones will have just so much attention and it is queer that the Government don't pay what it owes them at once.

General Sherman says the army is too small. The New York Sun says it isn't. Now what shall we do about it?

The necessity and the vast advantage of having California well represented at the Paris Exhibition cannot be overestimated. It is an opportunity to advertise the natural wealth and attractions of our State abroad that should be improved to the utmost.—S. F. Chronicle.

The above applies but perhaps in a less degree to Nevada.

They have surnamed Hewitt "the Stamp Slinger of the Sangamon" and want him to come out to Illinois and run for Congress.

Important Decision.

Judge Rising, of the First Judicial District, on Tuesday gave a decision in the case of Jno. Gillig vs. W. S. White, et al., for the foreclosure of a mechanics' lien against the International hotel in Virginia city, which decision is one of special interest to the legal fraternity and many other of our readers in this county. We therefore, according to promise, give the substance of said decision.

The original contract called for the building of the International hotel according to certain plans and specifications, for $115,000. This was in May '76. Seventy-five thousand dollars was paid out and six months' work was done. The principal contractor, White, became embarrassed and work on the building temporarily ceased. One of the owners, Hanak, paid $3,515 in November to the workmen and the construction of the building was resumed. Prior, however, to this payment the parties who furnished part of the building material had given notice to Hanak that the contractor had failed to pay them and they should look to the building for their pay. Judge Rising held that as a general principle of law the owner will be responsible for the payment of money to the contractor after notice, but there may exist some equitable considerations which will form an exception to the rule. He conceived that the considerations for the payments of the amount in question were sufficiently binding, and just, and he therefore declared that it be allowed. Hanak in Dec., paid to White $3,521 which the Judge held should not be allowed, since the contractor, White, had not paid his indebtedness and could not meet his demands. Further it did not satisfactorily appear that there was any equitable excuse, or in fact any real necessity for the payment of the last mentioned sum. Again there was at the time a mechanic lien filed on the building, and the owners having had active and constructive notice of the same, should not have paid White the $3,521 mentioned. After $78,515 of the $115,000 the contract price, had been paid, there remained due the lien holders $17,461, and due from Bateman and Hanak the owners $36,485. The question at issue and to which we wish to call particular attention is:

"Are the owners liable, under the mechanics' lien law of 1875, for an indebtedness against the property in excess of the contract price?"

The plaintiff and other lien claimants contend that the property is responsible for all materials furnished and labor performed, regardless of the contract price and the condition of accounts between owners and contractor.

By the act of the Legislature of this State, a lien is given for all materials furnished and labor performed in the construction of any building. Under similar statutes of different States the decisions of the courts conflict. The decisions of the courts of Indiana and Maryland sustain the law, while the Supreme Court of California, in several late cases, clearly and unequivocally hold that the owner cannot be held liable in any sum in excess of the contract price, except for payment to the contractor after notice. The mechanics' lien law of this State is, in all essential particulars, a copy of the California statute, and was borrowed from that State. It is a well settled rule of law, enunciated and recognized by the Supreme Court of this State, in 8 Nev., 312 and 11 Nev., 313, that when a statute has received a judicial construction, and is afterwards adopted by another State, the construction as well as the terms of the statute will be deemed adopted. At the time of the adoption of the law by the Legislature of the State it had received a judicial interpretation by the Supreme Court of California; and it is to be presumed that, at the time of the adoption of the law, the Legislature knew of the judicial construction which the same had received. Therefore, this law was adopted with the judicial construction that the Court of California had given to it, and we are bound to adopt and follow the same interpretation. Upon this settled principle I am obliged to decide that lien claimants cannot enforce liens against property for a sum exceeding the balance remaining due on the contract when notice was given. In this case, therefore, the property cannot be held for a sum exceeding $36,485 and costs.

From this it will be seen that the amount due the lien holders in excess of the original contract was not allowed. The sureties were of course let out.

The South Carolina Contest—Democrats Confident of Success.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23d.—The Republicans are disappointed over the result of yesterday's doings in the Senate in the South Carolina contested seat case. Thurman's resolution to discharge the Elections Committee from further consideration was up and debated. The discussion partook of the nature of an altercation between the members of the committee as to the proceedings of the committee. Finally Mr. Hoar moved to lay the resolution on the table. A canvass of the Senate had been made, and the Republicans felt sure of winning. Conover, of Florida, disappointed them, however, by voting with the Democrats, giving that side one majority. The vote on a motion to go into executive session was a test one. Davis, of Illinois, voted with the Democrats, and Patterson was absent. The latter is to vote with the Democrats. His absence was the principal reason why an adjournment was had, because the Democrats were not sure of Conover on the main question. They are not sure of his vote even yet. The cause for his voting as he did is stated to be that he has property in Florida and wants to live there, which he can do in no peace if he aids the Democrats in the Senate. It is expected to reach the main question on the discharge of the committee to-day, when Patterson will be present to vote with the Democrats. The latter are confident of success.

BUTLER'S RECORD—CONOVER'S EXCUSE.

Chicago, Nov. 23d.—The Inter-Ocean's Washington special says: Senators Cameron and Christiancy, the committee who went to South Carolina last Winter, have their report ready for presentation. It is a scathing review of Butler's record as a negro murderer, and gives a detail statement of facts in connection with his election. One of these facts is that the Senate and Legislature which elected him had only seven members. Patterson's excuse for voting with the Democrats is that their persecution of him will stop. Conover's excuse is a sad commentary on the President's policy, and it is said that he owns property in Florida and that he dare not go back to live upon it unless he does something to counteract his record as a Radical. This will be called to the attention of the President.

The present Congress contains in Senate and House 69 members, who served in the Union army, of whom 14 are Democrats, and 61 who served in the Confederate army, of whom one, Colonel Metcalfe of Missouri, is a Republican. There are also eight who were members of the Confederate government and Congress, including Stephens, its Vice President, Reagan, its Postmaster General, and Hill, leader of the Confederate Senate. Of the Confederates all but half a dozen are from the Ex-Confederate States proper the others being from Kentucky and Missouri. It is noticeable that in a number of instances the Southern members do not mention their services in the Confederate army. Like Colonel Morrison, of Illinois, and Mr. Speaker Randall, they drop this mention, perhaps, because they do not desire to wound the feelings of their "erring brethren" of the Union.

California butchers, or rather the slaughterers must look to their laurels. An association composed of leading men in Nevada has been formed, with headquarters at Reno, for the purpose of there slaughtering their cattle and transporting the beef to San Francisco in refrigerator cars manufactured expressly for the purpose. Some of the largest retail dealers in San Francisco have, at reduced figures, made contracts for their beef supplies for two years.—Oakland Transcript.

An unappreciative exchange fires this one at the "Poet of the Sierras": "Joaquin Miller, the hairy liar of the Sierras, who goes through the parlors of the world in the muddy boots of his vulgarity, delightfully shocking all feelings of decency and propriety in the hearts of hero-worshipping women, doesn't like reporters, he says. Neither does the gentleman who lost a lucrative position as gorilla in the London Zoological Gardens, because a curious reporter jabbed his composing pen through his humbug hide and hair."

MARRIAGE IN CELESTIAL HIGH LIFE.—Considerable attention was attracted at the depot last evening by the arrival of a Chinese bridal party from San Francisco, a Sacramento merchant having taken unto himself a bride. The latter was gorgeously attired, and, in accordance with Celestial etiquette for such occasions, concealed her face almost wholly behind a large fan. There was a large gathering of Chinamen at the depot to receive the happy pair.—Sacramento Record, Nov. 20th.

Philadelphia Bulletin: When General Sherman got back home from kissing all of those Oregon girls, the family rule against round dances was suspended for about ten minutes.

Austria applauds an alliance between Germany and Italy as being highly useful to herself, even if she is wedged in between them.

Bodie.

[From the Bodie Standard.]

Bodie is to have a free public well and watering trough for horses and teams. Harry Williams and Hank Rogers have been engaged sinking for water on the side of the street, near the old spring, for upwards of a week. They are now down about twenty feet, and have about four feet of water. A new and improved force pump with 150 feet of rubber hose will be put in, which will be of great value in case of a fire in the immediate vicinity. The whole expense of the well, pump and trough, will be paid by subscriptions from mill men, merchants and residents in the neighborhood of the well.

We are informed that S. D. Cobb's livery stable on Main street has been sold to a Mr. Hogan, and that it will be remodeled and converted into a first-class hotel. Such an improvement is very much needed in Bodie. There are actually no sleeping accommodations here commensurate with the demand, and daily increasing population.

Bodie continues as lively as ever. New faces appear on the street daily, and new buildings are seen in every direction. The entire available force in the town and vicinity, of mechanics, carpenters and builders, are kept continually employed, seven days a week, and cannot then begin to fill the orders for new houses and business places. The success and permanency of the district is already assured. From eight to ten large and wealthy corporations will be actually at work upon the first opening of Spring. No mining district upon the Pacific Coast has as promising an outlook and future as Bodie.

Phil. Reilly, the original discoverer of the Black Hawk mine, has made another big strike in the discovery of a valuable spring upon the southerly side of Bodie Bluff, one of the highest hills in the district. Water is said to be in abundance, with a flow sufficient to run a 10-stamp mill. As there are a number of good mines on the bluff, and all have to haul their water a mile and a half from the town, the value of this spring cannot be overestimated.

Bodie mining stocks are in great demand. Bechtel, Bodie, Black Hawk and Belvidere, are much sought after by our people here, many of whom know from personal examination that they are each and all good mines, and only require to be properly developed to astonish by their yield of gold and silver bullion, the most sanguine of their friends.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Telephone in Our Midst and What It May Lead To.

Last evening the telephone man of Virginia City, (we did not learn his name), came down to Reno, and while waiting for the west bound train slipped into the A. & P. telegraph office, and attaching his wire to the main line and gave a few friends a chance to attest in this particular way the wonderful power of the telephone. The dots and dashes made in a distant office could be as distinctly heard by those present as when the main wire was connected with the office instruments and made known on the sounder, the will of those many miles away. We predict that this invention will be productive of considerable domestic trouble. Suppose a married man, secretly makes telephonic connections with his residence and his office. He is a business man and is detained in his office until 10 or 11 P. M. many nights in every month. Bidding his consort good-bye on the door step he says: "My dear, I shall not return until quite late this evening, and you need not sit up for me." She does not like it, but says: "Dearest, I will sit up until you come," and, kissing him, says, "now, good-bye." Two hours pass away and some one pulls the door bell. She opens the door and greets one whose step is somewhat familiar.

Mrs. Smith—"Mr. Brown, I am lonely to-night, and so very glad you have come; husband is down to the office. Poor man! he is so busy; I wish that he could spend more of his time with me, but business is business."

Smith hears female voice; closes the office door, turns down the light, and applies his ear to the telephone.

Mr. Brown—"Yes, it is only 7:15, and he will be away until 11 o'clock; long time—* * * No I would not be surprised if he was round to Mrs. Jones', its 9 o'clock; well he may be home soon and I must go, he might think —."

Mrs. Smith—"No Brown, he won't think anything of the kind, but you must be careful not to repeat anything that we have said to-night * * * Pleasant good night; squeezes her hand. She says: "Joe Brown, go along with you; if you squeeze my my hand again I'll tell Mr. Smith."

Smith goes home; cold in his manner; headache; sleeps up stairs; goes out occasionally to see other women; gossips work; divorce; telephone kicked out; marries a scold; dies of broken heart.

THE ITALIAN CASE.—The Italian murder case was disposed of last night by the acquittal of the accused, Morella and Minvelli. This is one of the most peculiar cases on record. Several weeks ago an Italian named Galli Lucio was most brutally murdered by two of his countrymen. A witness for the State saw the men and heard them speak in their own language. A number of friends of the deceased man aided the officers as well as they knew how, and there seemed no marked reason why the man should have been murdered. Two men were arrested on suspicion, the case worked up and the District Attorney thought that he had the murderers; but the evidence did not show it, and the accused were this morning set at liberty. A certain party is suspected, but our officers are not disposed to again put the county to a considerable expense on mere suspicion. It is, therefore, probable that the case will forever remain in its present state, unless at some future time circumstances shall indicate beyond dispute the wretches, who, at the hour of midnight, cruelly took the life of one who bore a good character and who hailed from the birth-land of ancient empires and the home of the Caesars.

EDITORIAL VISITORS.—Mr. Frank Smith, traveling correspondent of the People's Cause, a paper published in the town of Red Bluff, Cal., dropped into our sanctum to day and bade us a reporter's greeting. He is doing western Nevada for the Cause; reports well of his general conduct, and what is rare for a newspaper man, is a Good Templar. Red Bluff is the home of 3,000 people and supports two newspapers, and is the center of a large supply trade.

A rich strike is reported in the north and south drift from the 1900 feet level in the Ophir mine. Hence in all probability the twelve dollar raise in the price of that stock on the forenoon's stock board. Look out for another porphyry horse in a few days.

Mike M. Gowan, the man-eater is in jail at Tuscarora. He arrived in that town on Monday morning, pressed his tazy and was arrested by officer Weaver. Mickey attempted to chew Weaver but was laid out by that officer in good style. One by one the roses fade.

Read the abstract of Judge Rising's decision on the lien law. A somewhat analazous case was that of Wood et al vs. I. O. O. F. lodge No. 14, of Reno. Judge Wright in some respects, gave a different decision.

Miss Emma Gibbs, who has been dangerously sick with pneumonia has now got the better of this serious ailment and reports herself on the high road to good health.

MAIL ROUTE WANTED.—A petition is in circulation, and being extensively signed, asking that the present mail route from Quincy to Summit be extended to Reno, and that the service be increased to three times a week. There is no doubt that this would be a very desirable improvement. Sign the petition.—Plumas National.

Send it down, neighbor, and we will give you a lift. Close communication by mail is the undoubted right of every community which represents the wealth and permanency of Quincy.

According to the Carson Tribune, Deacon Parkinson, the nautical editor of that paper, is cruising about San Francisco. He makes the office of the Stock Report his headquarters, and is bunking with Bunker.—Exchange.

No, he's not bunking with Bunker. A commodious drygoods box on Bush street has been rented by the saintly Deacon, and he is already known at prominent lunch stands as the "Nevada Army Worm."

DYING.—Charlie VanGorder, a prominent Comstocker since 1860, is slowly dying in Sacramento. His physicians have given him up and there is no longer hope of his recovery.—Ex.

We hope and believe that the above is untrue. VanGorder, although very low, may easily live to greet his friends again.

HUMBOLDT BEEF.—A gentleman conversant with the facts informs us that there is more and better beef along the Humboldt river this season than ever before since the settlement of the State. Better prices are also promised cattle men by reason of the organization of the California Beef Shipping Company. Pretty much all of our beef for export will be hereafter slaughtered in Nevada. Shipments will be made by the car load to San Francisco, Chicago and New York, and one enthusiast says that within sixty days fresh beef from Nevada will be landed in the Liverpool market. The world does move, don't it.—Pureka Sentinel.

Co-operation of Sacramento Grangers.

The following is from the California Patriot, a newspaper printed in San Francisco under the patronage of the State Grange:

It is not generally known that the farmers living on the banks of the Sacramento river, have for the last four or five years been engaged in one of the most profitable co-operative schemes in California. Sacramento river and the numerous islands in the delta formed by the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers, are known to be the garden spot of California for fruits and vegetables, all of which find a market in San Francisco.

Previous to the formation of the California Transportation Company, the farmers were put to great inconvenience and heavy expense in getting their products to market. To remedy these evils and to prevent the entire value of their crops from being absorbed by the vessels engaged in the carrying trade, and by commission merchants, some five years ago they put one small steamer on the route at reduced rates. Their business increased so rapidly that they were compelled to put on more steamers, until last year, when their profits amounted to some $50,000. This season they had the steamer Onward built at a cost of about $40,000, and now have six steamers and several barges employed. Illustrations are not wanting where farmers in various parts of the State have been largely benefitted by co-operation.

HONOR OLD AGE.—Bow low the head, boy; do reverence to the old man as he passes slowly along. Once like you, the vicissitudes of life have silvered the hair and changed the round face to the worn visage before you. Once that heart beat with aspirations co-equal to any you have felt; aspirations crushed by disappointment, as yours are perhaps destined to be. Once that form stalked proudly through the gay scenes of pleasure the beautiful of grace; now the hand of Time, that withers the flowers of yesterday, has wrapped the figure and destroyed that noble carriage. Once, at your age, he had the thousand thoughts that pass through your brain—now wishing to accomplish something worthy in fame; anon imagining life a dream that the sooner he woke from the better. But he has lived the dream nearly through. The time to wake is very near at hand; yet his eye even kindles at old deeds of daring, and his hand takes a firmer grip of his staff. Bow low the head, boy, as you would in your old age be revered.

A LITTLE "POP."—How nicely this corn pops?" observed he, as they sat eating it together by the fire.

"Yes," replied she, holding down her head, "its got over being green."

Of course he couldn't stand such an inference as that, and might soon have been seen "popping" himself, and watching the glad light in her eyes as she blushing said, "Go ask 'poppy'!"

The more honesty a man has the less he affects the air of a saint; the affectation of sanctity is a blot on the face of piety.

The flesh and skin of several kinds of serpents are employed in China as medicine, care being taken to cut off the head and tail.
